ROBERT McCOTTER

Full stack web developer with a history as an Army Engineer and team leader. Skilled in HTML, CSS, Javascript and React as well as design layout using Adobe Creative Suite.

PROJECTS

Speak Easy Messaging App

A mobile messaging app created using React-Native and Expo as well as making use of firebase to store conversations and images. The app enables a user to log in to a message room, send messages, share photos from their device storage or camera, and share their location. The app allows users to access messages while offline using local storage.

Social-Eyes Event Calendar App

An event viewing Progressive Web Application created using React and the Google Calendar API. The interface shows upcoming events which the user can sort by location as well as select the number of events shown. The display features data visualization charting how many events are upcoming per city and what percent of events pertain to which area of development.

MyFlix Movie Database

A web based movie database application built using React for the Front End and the Mern Stack for the Backend. The user can see the database of movies and create an account to save their favorite movies. The user can navigate through various views to find information on the film, genre, and director of each film listed.
